

Editorial

First of all I want to express my happiness for the successful transfer of the Journal of Computational Methods in Sciences and Engineering (JCMSE) from the previous publisher to the new one, IOS Press. I hope that with IOS Press we can give a new impulse to the journal and that it will continue to grow as a reference work in the scientific community.

I also wish to thank, again, Professor Dr. Jesus Vigo-Aguiar for his excellent editorial work in the selection of papers from the CMMSE-2002 conference, published in this journal. This is the second part of the CMMSE-2002 special issue.

Prof. Dr. Theodore E. Simos

Editor-in-Chief

Journal of Computational Methods in Sciences and Engineering