

Welcome Message

Dear Colleagues and Friends,

On behalf of the Korean Balance Society and Organizing Committee, I graciously welcome all of you to Seoul, Korea for the 29th Bárány Society Meeting 2016.

The Korean Balance Society has made many achievements in a short period in the academic fields and international relations with a collaborative effort among Departments of Otolaryngology, Neurology, Physiology, and etc. Hence, the members of our society are honored to host the Bárány society meeting, the most famous conference for vestibular system and otoneurologic fields.

Under the theme of "Acceleration and Harmony," the Organizing Committee has made a great effort to provide participants a meaningful time to achieve our common goal of sharing the knowledge of vestibular and oto-neurological research and accelerating progress in our fields in harmony with every participant.

With your great contribution and support, more than 600 vestibular scientists have registered for the meeting and over 400 excellent abstracts have been accepted. In light of this remarkable participation, we expect this meeting to be the largest meeting since the Bárány Society Meeting has started.

All the members of the Committees have shown unbounded enthusiasm as well as efficiency in planning this meeting. We encourage attendees to reap benefits from the cutting-edge scientific programs from basic to advanced, including Plenary Lectures, Teaching Courses, Symposiums, Satellite Symposiums, Oral Presentations, and Posters. As science is at the heart of this meeting, please take this opportunity to meet specialists and network with colleagues from every corner of the globe, while enjoying the unique Korean atmosphere and culture all around us.

Your active participations truly make this meeting special, and I sincerely hope you have a memorable time with your friends and colleagues during the meeting in Seoul.

With sincere regards,
