

EDITORIAL

Central to the success of our journal is the ability of the Editor-in-Chief to have manuscripts well reviewed. In this respect, I owe a great debt of gratitude to several of the Associate Editors for their choice of Reviewers, and to all of you who answered our call to referee manuscripts submitted to Biorheology. In some small measure, I hope to repay that debt by taking the liberty of listing the names of Associate Editors and Reviewers who have worked with me in the review process since I took over as Editor-in-Chief. There are over 100 names on the list, reflecting the wide range of subjects, and hence expertise, of the Reviewers for the 91 papers that have been or are presently being reviewed.

Here then are your names, you who made it possible to raise and maintain our scientific standards. The list comes with many thanks and warm greetings for the New Year. I apologize for any names inadvertently missed from the following list:

Andrew Acrivos, Gerard Arteshian, Gerhard Artmann, Ann Baldwin, Joel Barlow, Rupert Bauersachs, Jiri Blahovec, Rhoda Blostein, Pierre Bongrand, Philippine Bronkhorst, Donald Brooks, K. B.
