Martha E. Williams, ed. Computer-readable databases: a directory and data sourcebook. Amsterdam: North-Holland, 1985. 2 vols. Dfl. 675. ISBN 0-444-87615-4.

For the first time, this edition has been divided into two volumes, "Science, technology, medicine" and "Business, law, social sciences, humanities", and includes information about 2805 databases, indexed separately by name, subject, producer and processor (compared with 773 databases included in the last edition, published in 1982). To be eligible for inclusion, a database must be in computer-readable form and publicly available. For each database, the following information is supplied: producer, time span, approximate size and annual growth rate, update frequency, corresponding print products, language, online host, subject content, user aids (thesaurus, manual, etc.).
