Erratum to “Theory and practice of myofascial pain as both practicing clinician and patient” (a Physician Commentary)

[J. Back Musculoskeletal Rehabil. 8 (1997) 173]<sup>1</sup>

The publisher regrets that an important word was inadvertently omitted from the above paper. The sentence beginning nineteen lines down from the second column on p. 173 should read:

“It was always a cause for consternation when the patient did not improve after a trial of NSAIDS, modalities, exercises, or the occasional ‘Travell-type’ trigger point injections.”
