

From the Editor

Once again, the weeks, months and years have flown by so quickly that I can hardly believe that this issue concludes WORK's 13th year – a truly coming of age year!

As we enter into our 14th year, we will continue to provide you with high caliber peer reviewed research and clinical practice articles, student papers, case studies and commentaries that address the many challenges and opportunities, we face in work. This issue adds to this growing body of knowledge. It explores a myriad of provocative topics such as, the effects of a peer versus professional led physical activity intervention with workers to the cost-effectiveness of a pre-screening program to job satisfaction and factors that influence successful return to work after a work-related injury.

As always, I welcome your feedback and encourage you to submit manuscripts to WORK.

Cheers,

Karen

kjacobs@bu.edu

<http://people.bu.edu/kjacobs/>