I write this From the Editor while in Moultonborough, New Hampshire, USA as we wait for a snow storm. We’ve retreated to this peaceful area since it’s a three day Martin Luther King, Jr. holiday weekend before the start of the next academic semester at my university.

“If I cannot do great things, I can do small things in a great way”, Martin Luther King, Jr. once said. King, an inspiration to everyone, did both. His actions were great and small. As we celebrate King, I reflect on actions that I can do to follow his lead. I hope you will do the same.

This issue of WORK contains six articles on a variety of topics, including a very special Case Study Report by occupational therapist Mary Anne Lewis titled, Purely Patrick; and two articles for the monthly special section on Ergonomics in a Global World. These articles are Predicting Technology Usage by Health Information Need of Older Adults: Implications for eHealth Technology and Quality of Work Life and differences in Demographic Characteristics among Managerial Staff in Algerian tertiary sector. They were oral presentations from the 2018 International Ergonomics Association (IEA) Congress in Florence, Italy.

The final seven articles make up a special section on firefighters. Firefighters’ actions certainly are great and small. We honor them in this special section.

We hope that you have been enjoying our webinar series, Learn at WORK. If you missed any of the webinars, you can find the recordings at the Learn at WORK YouTube channel: https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCOJalCXvSg9fPHaFFs48PuQ
