

From the Editor

2017 marks the centennial of many events, organizations and professions. Most notable are: the United States entry into World War I and the battle of Passchendaele, the Russian Revolution, the founding of Denali National Park and Preserve in Alaska, the Virgin Islands becoming part of the United States, and Finland receiving independence.

As for organizations, the Rotary Foundation and the Society for the Promotion of Occupational Therapy which shortly after became the American Occupational Therapy Association (AOTA) are celebrating their centennial year. I am proud to be a member of both Rotary and AOTA; and thought I would use this From the Editor to share information about both these organizations.

Although Rotary started 110 years ago, the Rotary Foundation (the philanthropic aspect of Rotary) began in 1917. There are 1.2 million Rotary Club members and 35,000+ clubs around the globe. The guiding principles of Rotary are service, fellowship, diversity, integrity, and leadership with a focus of service above self in the following areas locally, nationally and globally:

- Promote peace
- Fight disease
- Provide clean water, sanitation, and hygiene
- Save mothers and children
- Support education
- Grow local economies (<https://www.rotary.org/en/about-rotary>)

The American Occupational Therapy Association (AOTA) represents over 56,000 members. "... Occupational therapists and occupational therapy assistants help people of all ages participate in the things they want and need to do through the therapeutic use of everyday activities (occupations). Occupational therapy helps people function in all of their environments (e.g., home, work, school, community) and addresses the physical, psychological, and cognitive aspects of their well-being through engagement in occupation" (<http://www.aota.org/About-Occupational-Therapy/Professionals.aspx>).

Interestingly, as I investigated the number 100, I found that it represents energy that's self-determined, independent and has infinite potential. Certainly, both Rotary and occupational therapy exemplify these traits.

WORK celebrated its 27th year in 2017 and let's anticipate that it will someday celebrate its centennial, too.

Now let's turn our attention to this issue of WORK, which contains 14 articles on a wide range of topics such as occupant experiences of health and comfort in LEED platinum buildings, workplace violence, backpack carriage, ergonomics risk factors in computer work, and work predictors in persons who have experienced a stroke, among many other interesting topics.

On Tuesday, June 20 at 1-2pmEST, Dr. Jessica Leibler, whose article titled, Prevalence of serious psychological distress among slaughterhouse workers at a United States beef packing plant is contained in this issue of WORK, will present a Learn at WORK webinar on this topic.

The 2017 Learn at WORK webinars continue to be well received. If you missed any, you can find the recordings of these complimentary learning experiences at the Learn at WORK YouTube channel:
